

HORTON'S KIDS, INC.

The Program: Horton's Kids, Inc. ("Horton's Kids") is a nonprofit corporation created to provide tutoring and mentoring services to children in Washington, D.C. Horton's Kids organizes weekly educational and recreational activities designed to improve the participants' sense of self-worth and to encourage academic excellence. The main activities sponsored by Horton's Kids are tutoring sessions on Monday and Tuesday evenings in the Rayburn House Office Building and educational and recreational excursions on Sunday afternoons. The Sunday excursions may include trips to museums, parks, movies, swimming pools, tennis courts, and bowling alleys, among others. Horton's Kids restricts participation in the Program in order to maintain an appropriate volunteer to participant ratio.

I am aware that my participation as a volunteer in the program described above (the "Program") involves risk of injury. I understand that the risks will vary depending upon the activities planned. I understand that certain activities (such as those involving water, running or other athletic activities) are inherently dangerous and involve many risks of injury, including, but not limited to, serious bodily injury and death.

I have provided to Horton's Kids all medical information that Horton's Kids would need to know in the event of a medical emergency, including all of my known allergies and other medical conditions. I have provided all additional information that I consider important to my participation in the Program. I will adhere to all of the rules, regulations and instructions given by Horton's Kids, its officers, directors, employees, volunteers and agents and I assume responsibility for my compliance with such rules, regulations and instructions.

In consideration for allowing me to participate in the Program, I hereby assume all the risks associated with the Program and agree to hold Horton's Kids, its officers, directors, employees, volunteers, and agents harmless and indemnify them from any and all liability, causes of action, suits, controversies, obligations, claims, debts or demands of any nature whatsoever which may arise in connection with my participation in the Program, including, without limitation, those which arise through the negligence of the officers, directors, employees, volunteers and agents of Horton's Kids or of any other participant in the Program.
